

Dr. Devan Othman Hussein

---

She obtained her B.Sc. degree in Geology from the University of Sulaimani, Slemani, Kurdistan Region, Iraq in 2004. In 2008, she obtained her M.Sc. degree in Petroleum Geology from the University of Sulaimani, Slemani, Kurdistan Region, Iraq. In 2016, she got her Ph.D degree in Petroleum Geology/Reservoir Geology from the University of Leeds, Leeds, the United Kingdom. Since 2004, she has employed at the Department of Geology, College of Science, University of Sulaimani, from 2021 she has been an assistant professor and she is head of the Department. She is teaching several geological modules for both undergraduate and postgraduate students supervising several graduation projects and more recently supervising M.Sc. and Ph.D. students. Her research experience includes Diagenesis processes, Microfacies analysis and defining depositional environments of Carbonate reservoirs, Petrophysical analysis, formation evaluation, and reservoir geology.